Art Unit: 2621

1. The drawings are objected to because at least some of the “blocks” illustrated in Figures 1 and 4 are not functionally labeled. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as “amended.” If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either “Replacement Sheet” or “New Sheet” pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Art Unit: 2621

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The following is noted:

1) As noted in lines 23-32 on page 2 of the instant specification, despite the fact that it was known to have been desirable to produce seamless continuation of video image playback when transitioning between layers, the referenced "DVD Video Standard" instead required cells recorded on different layers of a DVD disc to be produced with a seam. It is the examiner's current understanding that this "requirement" was made out of necessity in that the reading/decoding circuitry of conventional DVD players were simply incapable of making the cell transition between layers without producing a seam (i.e., the "visible hiccup" referenced in the instant specification). That is, as currently understood by the examiner, it was physically impossible for conventional DVD players to perform seamless reproduction when transitioning between layers.

2) To the extent of the examiner's understanding of the instant invention, it appears that the applicant allegedly overcomes the noted "disadvantage" simply by converting the control signal in conventional "DVD video standard" from a non-seamless state to a seamless state during the transition between layers. However, to the extent of the instant examiner's understanding, such a conversion of the control signals effectively tells conventional DVD players to perform a processing, i.e., to produce a seamless transition, that the player is physically incapable of performing. It is not understood how this disclosed/claimed process, i.e., changing the control signal to a seamless production state (i.e., as is claimed in each of the pending claims), overcomes the noted disadvantage as alleged. Clarification is required.

5. The following “prior art is noted:

A) US Patent Document #2004/0095812 to Yoshimura et al:

Yoshimura et al. describes a format which permits, at playback, seamless image presentation even when reading data from different layers of a DVD [Note paragraph 0091]

B) US Patent #7,295,762 to Sawabe et al.:

Sawabe et al describes a system which permits, at playback, seamless image presentation even when reading data from different layers of a DVD [Note: lines 61-67 of column 1; and lines 11-24 and 40-63 of column 14]
